Caring & Connecting During COVID-19
How You Can Help

Dear Friend,

As we approach May 15 and the end of the full New York State on Pause period, it is clear that although much progress has been made in combating COVID-19, New York City will not be among the first to reopen.

The resiliency of New Yorkers is legendary, and we salute all who are working on the front lines or volunteering to help reduce the impact of the virus. We also mourn the loss of those we’ve lost to the pandemic.

All of us at the Volunteer Referral Center eagerly await the day when we can meet with you in person. We look forward to returning to what we do best: counseling and connecting those who want to help with those who urgently need their help and sustaining our vital network of individuals, families, agencies and communities throughout New York City.

In the meantime, our nonprofit community of 300 nonprofit organizations continues to innovate new ways to care for and connect with those in need. Whether you are tech-savvy or old-school, you can help others and yourself to stay connected and make a difference.

Several opportunities are featured in this newsletter. Please see the list below. We will continue to provide this vital link during this crisis, gathering information to share with you in support of our communities.

You can also help us sustain our services by making a donation to the Volunteer Referral Center, now celebrating 31 years of connecting volunteers with NYC nonprofit organizations.

Thank you.

Friendly Visiting Virtually
Due to current conditions, Friendly Visiting is operating virtually over the phone or through video chat. With so many more older adults isolated at home right now, we have an even greater demand for volunteers!

Staff from our Friendly Visiting program continue to match and coordinate more than 70 volunteers who are now providing weekly phone calls and face time conversations with Geriatric Care Management clients. Many amazing volunteers who contacted the organization in recent weeks are being matched with clients to provide this wonderful support for our most isolated clients. Help Create Audiobooks for Student Success!

Calling all Book lovers! At Learning Ally, volunteers create audiobooks for students with learning differences; member students may be blind or have a vision impairment, or have a learning difference like dyslexia. If you like listening to audiobooks, enjoy learning new things, or have a great voice, this is the volunteer opportunity for you!

They are looking for friendly voices that can read aloud with fluency, which is critical to comprehension for students with learning differences. For some subjects and textbooks, especially at the high school and college level, our narrators may need subject area expertise.

Right now they are exclusively looking for African American voices who are interested in providing support with the recording. Ideally they are looking for volunteers with some drama, acting experience. They also provide training for those with no experience. Youthful voices are ideal! See more information in this 4-min video.

Create a Virtual Storytime Library for Vulnerable Children!
New Alternatives for Children (NAC) serves families that have at least one child with special needs, often in combination with mental health, behavioral and/or developmental diagnoses as well.

"Story (Any) Time"
In response to the current pandemic, NAC will be bringing “Story (Any) Time” to our children. We are building a library with uploaded videos of staff and volunteers reading stories out loud. The children can log on and listen to your story – at any time!

To become a volunteer, just follow these simple steps:

- Record yourself (audio or visual) reading your favorite children's book. If you don't own such a book – check out this link https://www.nypl.org/books-music-movies/ebookcentral/simplye to get an ebook. Many NAC clients are bilingual learners, so we welcome readings in Spanish too.

- Please provide a very short explanation about why you like your chosen book. When you have finished your recording, please email volunteers@nackidscan.org. After we receive your email, we will send instructions on "How To Upload" your story.

NAC children and youth are aged 0-21, and you are never too old to enjoy a great tale. By sharing your favorite story with NAC children, you are not only opening their eyes to the magic, joy, and beauty in a compelling book – but also reminding them there are many people who care!
Delivering Letters to Local Seniors

Goddard Riverside, the social service nonprofit that works with seniors and others in the neighborhood, has been delivering letters to people who live in its senior home or receive delivered meals from the agency.

“Like the rest of us, many older adults are struggling with a sense of isolation. But social distancing is especially important for them, so we really appreciate everyone pitching in to help them feel valued and connected to the community while they stay safe,” said Executive Director Roderick Jones.

The letters go to people living at Phelps House, its older adult residence at 593 Columbus Avenue at 89th Street, and to people who receive meals delivered to their home, Goddard tells us. Both children and adults have sent letters. The kids also send drawings.

To participate, send your letter to:

New York Common Pantry

During this time, New York Common Pantry continues to stay open 7 days per week, giving out hot meals and pantry. The pantry at 8 East 109th Street runs from Wednesday-Saturdays, and our pantry at 1290 Hoe Avenue, Bronx, Thursday and Friday. Take-away hot meals are being served Mon-Fri at 2:30PM and brown bag lunches on Saturday and Sunday at 4PM. New guests are signing up for our services every day.

New services like home delivery and bulk drop offs are constantly being added, and we need a few great volunteers at both of our locations during the week. Gloves and masks are being provided, and their facilities are regularly cleaned. To minimize any risk, staff and volunteers are on split shifts.

We are looking for individual volunteers who can come in during the week from 9-4ish (lunch is supplied). Everyone should follow CDC guidelines and be able to answer a self evaluation on COVID symptoms that will be provided.

To sign up to volunteer please contact Debby at dlowenstein@nycommonpantry.org. Do not be discouraged if there isn’t an immediate opening once you sign up; the Pantry’s needs are constantly changing and you will be put on a waiting list.
